

Real Service

This is the place of no broken promises.

We hold our customers from year to year by never disappointing them—by giving them always the real service to which they are entitled.

Our mechanics are experts. Our merchandise department is stocked with fuel, lubricants, parts, accessories, tubes and casings—all of which have been chosen on a net quality basis.

High profits have no attractions for us because we know that high profits identify a kind of goods that mean future loss of business.

We are especially proud of our Goodyear line of tires, tubes and accessories. We feel that supplying these for our customers constitutes a valuable part of our real service.

May we serve you, too?

minutes in a fairly quick oven. Then cover and cook two hours in an oven as slow as for fruit cake.

1-8 teaspoonful pepper
1-8 teaspoonful mustard

A DIFFERENCE

A letter dated 1799 from the premier Marine Corps recruiting officer to the then Commandant of that Corps setting forth some of the recruiting methods of that time, was made public at Marine Corps Headquarters today. Comparison of present day recruiting activities with those of the 18th century is interesting.

Lieut. Hall's letter reads: "I purpose this week to open rendezvous in different parts of the country and make frolic to draw the people to me. I think I will have a great effect. There are some in jail whom I could get out by paying the sum of $12. Do you think I would be safe in advancing it?"

Present day recruiting officers require declarations from accepted men that they have never been convicted of any crime.

Cure for Cholera Morbus.
"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." Obtainable everywhere.

CAN CAREFULLY

How to Avoid Canning Troubles—Care Is Especially Necessary in Use of Simplified Method.

Careful painstaking canning is the only kind of canning that pays, declares the United States Department of Agriculture in a statement issued today warning housewives against carelessness in putting up fruits and vegetables.

"The faithful following of approved methods and directions is the only safe road to success in canning," says the statement. "Housewives who carelessly practice methods that are new to them, or who attempt to 'improve' on the method, or to make short cuts, are taking a risk of spoiling good food. Canning is essentially a scientific process however much it may have been simplified for home use. Methods Should Be Followed in Detail."

"In the canning methods which the department advocates careful study has been made of the essentials for the preservation of food products, and all steps not absolutely necessary have been eliminated. There is good reason therefore, for each step which is advocated. If home canners profess to follow a department method, they should follow it in detail; and if they fail so to follow it, they should frankly recognize that not the method but the application of it is at fault. Especially there should be no mixing of methods, whether those of the department or others. One method should be adopted and followed carefully in canning any given batch of products."

One-Period Cold-Pack Method.

"In the one-period cold-pack method of canning, in particular, canning has been simplified greatly as compared with some other methods. For this very reason every step called for in the directions is essential, and not one should be omitted or re-formed otherwise than as indicated. Specialists who have worked out and demonstrated this method of canning for the last five years have investigated all reports of the spoilage of products and have found in every case that the trouble was due to faulty equipment, including poor rubbers and containers, to failure to follow the directions carefully, to the use of old or spoiled vegetables or fruits, or to the local occurrence in certain vegetables of unusual spores which prove troublesome even under commercial canning practices. By following the simple directions exactly the specialists themselves have put up with home made water-bath outfits without loss, thousands of jars and cans of various products."

"The following points especially should be kept in mind when canning by the one-period cold-pack method:—

"Test jars, and use only those free from flaw.
"Use only good quality live rubber rings.
"Wash products thoroughly.
"Blanch in boiling water or live steam—hot water or vapor will not do.
"Dip into cold water—not tepid or warm water.
"Pack quickly into and out of cold water—do not soak.
"Pack into jars immediately—do not let the dipped products stand uncovered while you attend to something else.
"Be sure the jars are hot when the products is put into them. They can be kept hot in vessels of boiling water.
"Place the top and rubber on each jar as it is filled—do not wait until all the jars are filled.
"Place the jars in boiling (not merely hot) water deep enough to cover them entirely (not merely part way up the side of the jars).
"Sterilize for the full time indicated in the directions. Count time after boiling point has been reached.
"After sealing, turn jars upside down to cool, so that those with leaky seals may be found easily and so that their contents may be sterilized in tight-sealing containers.
"Store in a cool place—not in a hot kitchen or attic.
"Above all, plan so that you will not be interrupted. Then work quickly and devote your whole attention to the work in hand. Let all other work wait so far as possible, until all the jars are in the sterilizer. Any delay in performing the steps between blanching and sterilizing means risk of loss."

Will Never Be Without It

No other health medicine "reaches the spot," heals, soothes and relieves irritating, hacking coughs like Foley's Honey and Tar. Mrs. John Boronoville, Brussels, Wis., writes: "I've been using Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years and recommend it for children. I will never be without it in the house." Fink & Haumesser's.
